TWO CANDIDATES

Senator Blackburn and Representative Evans Both After It.

THE KENTUCKY SENATORSHIP

An Interesting Situation in the State Legislature.

CLAIMS OF BOTH PARTIES

The presence on the congressional scene of both Senator Blackburn and Congress man Walter Evans of the Louisville district indicates that however the legislative tangle may finally straighten out at Frankfort two prominent candidates for the position of Senator from Kentucky are now in this town. It is possible that neither may win, but that a sound money democrat will be Mr. Blackburn's successor.

The legislative situation is interesting The republicans and democrats are exactly tied on joint ballot, leaving at present the balance of power in the hands of two populist members, one of whom was elected by the aid of republican votes, and the other by the aid of democratic votes. But this division is to be changed next Saturday by the result of an election to be held that day in one of the Louisville assembly districts, where a vacancy exists by reason of a res-

A democrat-the only one elected in the city on the regular day in the redered his certificate because of a cloud rendered his certificate because of a cloud which hung over it. His republican opporent, it turned out, secretly withdrew from the race only a few days before the election, leaving the democrat a walkover. A charge of improper influences was made, whereat the successful democrat, an estimable young the successful democrat, an estimable young man, to show that he had not himself been a man he had not himse city on the regular day in November-surman, to snow that he had not himself been a party to anything improper, resigned his office. He was promptly renominated by his party, and is being opposed by a popular republican. The result is doubtful. Ordinarily, of course, the district is democratic; but how this canvass will be affected by the unusual importance attached to the result, and the personal matter which has brought it about, is a problem. Had the issue been fairly tried there, as in the other districts, on the regular election day, the republicans, as in the other districts, would have won. Col. Bradley, the republican candidate for governor, had over one hundred majority there. Both sides are making a tremendous effort to carry the day, the democrats upon the hypothesis that, if they win, the senatorship will certainly be theirs.

The republicans do not concede this, There are several contests in the house where they have a majority, and at leas two of the cases, it is claimed, will war-rant a decision in favor of that side. So that, if this contention is correct, the Louis-ville contest is not so vital as the demo-

What Mr. Blackburn's Friends Say. The confidence in Mr. Blackburn's return on the part of his friends in case the very largely upon his personal strength, which is considerable. Even men who differ radically with him on the silver quesfer radically with him on the sliver question—men who refuse to accept him as a financier at all—like him on personal grounds, and admit that on the other questions he is a thoroughly representative democrat. They look upon his stand on the sliver question, while mistaken, as manly. He didn't try to straddle or evade the question. He went no further when there was tion. He went no further when there was no challenge whatever to such sentiments no challenge whatever to such sentiments from anybody in the party than he goes now with those sentiments challenged by the leader of the party himself, issuing his mandate from the White House itself. The Senator, his friends claim, is a square man, who moves according to his lights, and under the influence of an incorruptible sense of duty. They believe too, that this sense of duty. sense of duty. They believe, too, that this sort of reputation will count in the demo-cratic caucus at Frankfort in his favor.

Evans chosen Senator base their confidence on his high standing in the party, on his services to the party, and on his conceded ability. There are other strong men in the race on that side. Congressman Hunter A. E. Willson of Louisville, and George Denny of Lexington, who is contesting the seat of W. C. Owens in the House, are actively in the field. Mr. Evans, however, is the first republican ever to carry the Louisville district, which occurred last year, gained much represent to see Mr. Evans confidence on his behalf oy the United States government, through Secretary of State James G. Arrested With Others on Suspicion Some Features of the Affair-Other and Confined in Prison After Exoneration-Suing for Damages.

CHICAGO, December 3.-The Chronicle today prints the following: International complications growing out of the arrest and imprisonment of an American citizen and a full interpretation of Mexican criminal law will be the features of a trial to be commenced today before Judge Neely in the circuit court. The suit of Herbert B. Gehr of Chicago against the Mexican Central Company for $50,000 Gamages for false imprisonment in the City of Mexico, which has been pending in the Cook county courts since 1892, is set for a hearing today, and several prominent Mexicans are already here in regard to the

His friends took up the case and inveked the aid of department officials and prembers of Congress. members of Congress.
The Mexican minister, Senor Romero, at the instance of Congressman Springer, tele-graphed President Diaz of Mexico and ask-ed for some action in behalf of the young American.

The Mexican authorities made a complete examination of the case, and found nothing which in any manner implicated Gehr. But for some reasons they took no action. Gehr's friends in the United States were Gehr's friends in the United States were again pushing the case, and finally, at the instance of James G. Blaine, then Secretary of State, Gehr was released. This was in August, 1891, after a confinement of fiftynine days in a fifthy prison. After his release he returned to Chicago, where he began suit against the Mexican railroad for $\frac{1}{2}\text{Color of damages. Gehr claims that the sole began suit against the Mexican railroad for $50,000 damages. Gehr claims that the sole defense of the railroad company is that it had nothing to do with causing the arrest of Gehr, and consequently is not liable.

The hearing before Judge Neely will be more than ordinarily interesting on account of the international comblications which arcse at the time of Gehr's arrest, and also because the Mexican criminal code will be because the Mexican criminal code will be introduced in evidence. The laws will be interpreted by means of the depositions of some of the attorneys from the City of Mexico and also by Senor Doncarlos Mexia, now a resident of Chicago, but who was former-ly a judge of one of the upper courts of the federal district of the Mexican republic.

Local Notes of Interest From Across the Bridge.

Rev. Neilson Falls, for many years rector of St. Alban's Episcopal Church, above Georgetown on the Tenleytown road, has severed his connection with the church. Some misunderstanding with members of his parish, it is said, led to Mr. Falls' resignation. The difficulties have been recently under investigation, as a Star reporter was informed, by Rev. Dr. Addison of Trinity parish.

St. Alban's is a small but self-sustaining ohurch. It is situated above the Massachu-setts avenue extension opposite Woodley Inn. Mr. Falls lives in the parsonage adjacent thereto. He is in government office, his church duties not requiring his exclusive attention.

Seriously Injured. While being driven down the Tenleytown road yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock a horse belonging to E. E. Imlay ran away detaching the shafts from the axle of the wagon and throwing the driver, Benj. Greene (colored), out on the granite block pavement near the Tenleytown electric power house. The singletree remained hanging to the traces on the horse and kept fright by striking him repeatedly in up the fright by striking him repeatedly in his wild run and creating a great noise. The horse was not caught until he had exhausted himself down in Georgetown. Greene, the driver, who is seventy years old, was seriously injured. His contact with the stone roadway was forcible. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital. Greene lives at 1328 15th street.

Novel Entertainment. There was a literary and gastronomic entertainment last night at the Gay Street Baptist Church, attended with novel fee tures, one of them making the price of admission as many pennies as the applican was old in years. Little silken perfumed was old in years. Little silken perfumed begs had previously been sent all members of the church and into these were dropped the admission cents, the whole being left at the entrance door. The affair was very successful. Of course no one was allowed to count at once the pennies brought in by the ladies. The little bags were shuffled until they lost their identity.

Electric Plant. The new machinery for the combined Electric Light and Power and Georgetown and Tenleytown Railroad Company's plants, to be placed in position in the Dent foundry buildings on Water street, from which place both plants are hereafter to be operated, is expected very shortly.

The Georgatown and Tenleytown company's present station will be abandoned centirely as a power house and kept only as a repository for cars.

The extension of the plants, made necessary through the adoption of the new power site, will be effected through the conduit system.
